Scope of the Journal

ISSN: 1750-0028 (Print), ISSN: 1750-0036 (Online)

IJIM publishes papers analysing all aspects of international and intercultural issues with regard to information management. Because of cultural/national differences, an information system that works perfectly in one place may not work in another, or identical systems may find different uses in different cultures. IJIM welcomes all scholastic research addressing how international or intercultural questions can produce information systems/information technology-related problems, which may involve changing management concepts, modelling, methodologies and business process engineering/re-engineering, as well as ethical and security concerns.

Topics covered include:

- Case studies of issues in different countries
- The influence of national/corporate culture
- Role/comparison of theories, criteria/determinants
- Intercultural/international moralities/codes of ethics
- Culturally divergent perceptions (ethics/privacy/security/laws)
- Risk/project management, systems design/development
- Changing philosophy due to cultural variation, HR practices
- E-commerce design/development/management
- Supply chain/customer relationship management
- Intercultural decision support systems
- Business intelligence/knowledge management
- Business process engineering/reengineering
- Software/data engineering
- Quality issues
- Education/training, collaborations/partnerships, innovation
