

Tightening Emission Standards to Create New Opportunities for Diesel Engines

Increasingly stringent emission legislations globally will benefit diesel engine manufacturers and components suppliers in the future because suppliers have historically been crucial innovators in the equipment manufacturing supply chain as they develop many of the products and technologies needed by original equipment manufacturers to reduce fuel consumption and comply with tightening emission standards. This will have a direct impact on the OHV and commercial vehicle industries in Asia as these are the main users of diesel engines.

On October 20-21, 2015, delegates from some of the region's leading diesel engine manufacturers, OEMs, engine and representatives from the industries servicing diesel engines will meet with the legislators and industry associations from across the region in order to exchange ideas and information and encourage the development of innovative and efficient diesel engines. Representatives from local governments will clarify recent ranges in policies including various new emission standards and subsidies for alternative fuel vehicles while industry leaders will share with the delegates their invaluable experiences of the local markets and offer suggestions of how best to communicate with local customers here and maintain continued growth.

This event will be an incredible opportunity for those already in the diesel engine industry or those who are looking to enter it. There will be a comprehensive range of informative talks on all aspects of the business and there will be an abundance of time set aside for networking; a great chance to meet potential clients or business partners.

Duxes has a solid reputation for organizing events for the automotive and equipment manufacturing industries and has been doing so since for over 7 years. We have every confidence that the Asia Diesel Engine Summit 2015 will be our best yet.

We look forward to seeing you on site of the summit.
