With scout, armed and light reconnaissance helicopters providing essential services across varied operations they are now a crucial asset for militaries to utilise across the fleet.

Chaired by Paul Kennard, Former Military Helicopter Pilot and Air Domain / Weapons Future Technology Requirements Manager, UK MoD DE&S, Scout Helicopter 2017 is the inaugural meeting for light utility and armed reconnaissance commanders to discuss their challenges and requirements with industry.

Taking place 23rd – 24th May 2017 in Frankfurt, Germany, senior commanders from The Royal Navy, Hungarian Air Force, Czech Air Force and Finnish Defence Forces have already confirmed their participation.
