This RESRB 2016 special section: ‘Renewable Energy Technology, Business and Policy’ involves selected papers from the conference Renewable Energy Sources – Research and Business held in Wrocław Poland, 22–24 June 2016. All papers address technology, business or policy aspects of renewable energy. The Guest Editor thanks all authors for sharing their research results, insights and conclusions on prospects and challenges associated with expanding renewable energy in the future sustainable global economy. The studies shed light on the current challenges and provide a springboard for governments, industries and research organisations for further developing renewable energy systems to the level where it can provide a significant contribution to energy supply. The Guest Editor is also grateful to all the reviewers for their constructive criticism of the draft manuscripts. Before closing, the Guest Editor would also like to acknowledge the support and guidance provided by Editor-in-Chief Prof. Tugrul U. Daim and journal manager Ms. Janet Marr to bring this issue to fruition.
