Scope of the Journal

ISSN: 1468-4330 (Print), ISSN: 1741-8127 (Online)

IJMED publishes peer-reviewed research on enterprise development, focusing on managerial capabilities, innovation and strategic practices. The journal addresses how organisations, particularly MSMEs and growth-oriented enterprises, improve performance, competitiveness and sustainability. It includes theoretical, empirical and practice-oriented studies on entrepreneurship, managerial capabilities, decision-making and organisational development, and on digital transformation and AI in enterprise contexts. IJMED provides an international forum for research on management practices supporting effective and sustainable enterprise development.

Topics covered include:

- Enterprise development, growth and long-term sustainability
- Managerial capabilities, decision-making and performance improvement
- Creativity, opportunity recognition and strategic renewal
- Entrepreneurship, new venture creation and high-growth enterprises
- MSMEs and small business ecosystems
- Digital transformation, AI and technology-driven management in enterprises, particularly MSMEs
- Product and service development and commercialisation
- Management practices and processes supporting organisational effectiveness
- International and cross-border growth
