Scope of the Journal

ISSN: 1742-4224 (Print), ISSN: 1742-4232 (Online)

Given the increasing ubiquity of technological systems and services, an international platform is needed to research their implementation and influence on democracy. IJED proposes and fosters discussion on the evolution and transformation of political systems by means of technology. However, the concept of e-democracy (also known as digital democracy or internet democracy) is clearly wider than this and IJED also explores issues such as the role of social media, identity theft, forgery/hacking, intellectual property, surveillance and challenges to regulatory power.

Topics covered include:

- E-democracy, freedom of speech, concepts/models/drivers/barriers
- E-voting, e-political campaigns, e-government and future challenges
- Big data, information overload and mashups, role of social media
- Hacking and hackism, identity theft, forgery
- New technologies, artificial intelligence, 3-D printing, open source software
- Technology and construction of court jurisdiction, challenges of regulatory power
- Public records online, global privacy regulations, copyright law, patents
- E-commerce and free stuff, digital divide
- Censorship, Big Brother and security, civil liberties online
- Surveillance and snoopers charter, email protection/online surveillance
- Alternative and online dispute resolution (ADR/ODR)
- IT law, defamation and protecting privacy rights
- Ethical views and issues, posting and selling sensitive material
- International arbitration in cyberspace
- International/commercial/industrial/economic espionage
