Scope of the Journal

ISSN: 1741-8437 (Print), ISSN: 1741-8437 (Online)

IJEWE provides a refereed international forum for discussion and analysis of how empowering leaders and empowered employees participate in long-term value creation and cross-functional collaboration to shape the future of sustainability and social innovation.

Topics covered include:

- Systems by which entrepreneurial leaders and employees collaborate to shape a more economically and socially just global labour market
- Business leaders, policymakers and investors developing environmental, social and governance (ESG) strategies as an essential business priority
- Operationalising ESG strategies as tangible and meaningful goals for employees
- Reskilling and upskilling employees for the job demands of the Fourth Industrial Revolution
- Leaders and employees collaborating to create long-term value for businesses and the environment in marketing, finance, tourism, fashion, STEM, healthcare and education
- Developing metaverse sustainably into industry sectors, including marketing, fashion, tourism, healthcare and education
- Building workforce ecosystems to promote public-private partnership
- Employee participation in developing climate technologies to meet net-zero targets
- Research, theoretical and policy agendas for an equitable and inclusive future of work across developed and developing economies
