Scope of the Journal

ISSN: 1478-1476 (Print), ISSN: 1479-3091 (Online)

IJFEM provides a refereed source of information on failure in technical and societal systems. The journal specifically recognizes the interplay of engineering and management in the causation and prevention of failures.

Contents:

The IJFEM publishes original papers, review papers, case studies, conferences reports, relevant technology and management reports, news, book reviews and notes. Commentaries on papers and reports published in the journal are encouraged. Authors will have the opportunity to respond to a commentary on their work before the entire treatment is published.

Topics covered include:

- Politics of standards, change and innovation
- Development of proactive quality management in organisations, innovation and societies
- Design of experiments and learning
- Knowledge and project management in innovation
- Tools and processes to detect management and engineering failures
- Inter-project and organisational learning
- Reflection and risk in innovation
- System engineering and management
- Development and refinement of failure management tools and techniques
- Managing failure databases and analysis
- Safety and risk management
- Failure tolerance and training
- Insurance, liability and legal issues
- Emergency response systems
- Failure-based innovation and learning
