IJPP addresses public policy issues facing nation states and national/supranational organisations, including governments, and how these approach and solve common public policy problems. It highlights governance, accountability, creation of wealth/wellbeing, and implications policy choices have on nation states and citizens, acknowledging that public policy choice/execution is complex, has ramifications on the welfare of citizens, and that, despite national differences, the actions of nation states are constrained by policies determined by supranational bodies, some not directly accountable to any international body.

Topics covered include:

- Emerging issues:
 - debates
 - linkages with economic/political/social problems
 - role of supranational organisations in shaping objectives/outcomes
- Implementation issues:
 - critiques/reports/solutions, international comparisons, analyses of successes/failures
- Role of supranational organisations in shaping public policy outcomes:
 - UN, EU, OECD, World Bank, IMF
 - non-governmental bodies e.g. international accounting/legal firms and supporting organisations
- Ramifications on third world countries of public policies adopted in the developed world
- Role of economic and other theories in shaping public policy development/implementation
